For Today: Leadership

It is easy to condemn leaders. Everyone enjoys being a critic of those making a difference: CEO's, politicians, pastors, an even some celebrities. We often think we can do a better job, or that they should be using their influence differently. But one thing we cannot criticize them for, is actually doing something. Our critiques generally end at the level of conversation. Very rarely do people get out there and actually do a better job than those we consider to be leaders are already doing.

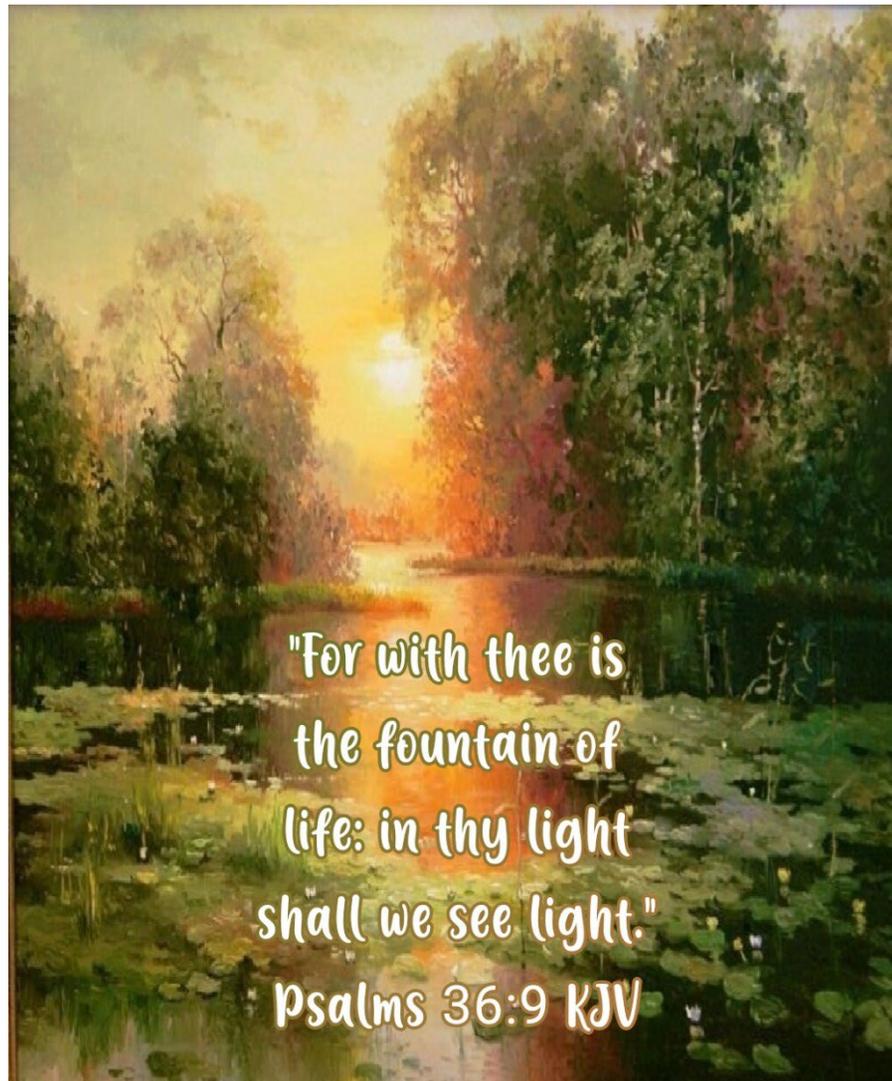

Several years ago, sociologist Michael Lindsay interviewed over 300 influential people in the United States. He found that all of them noted they had to work within stipulations and that they could not just do whatever they wanted. This means that leaders often do not have as much power as we think they do, and they do not always have the ability to do things better than what they are doing (even if they wish they could).

Despite their limitations in power, having to deal with constant critics, having their flaws/blunders unveiled to the world, frequently not receiving as much as a thank you from those they help, and regularly being taken advantage of, they continue to lead. What courage they must have!!!

Let us remember to pray for our leaders—our church leaders, our leaders at work, in the community, in the state, in the country, and around the world. Let us gain insight into the difficult nature of being responsible for others and for providing resources to our world. We need to encourage those we empower to lead and those who are called to lead. We need to enable them to accomplish the tasks at hand, whatever they may be.

It is easy to criticize but harder to act. If you are called to do something, lead in the action. Be courageous and do something, don't just whine about what is not being done well.

Benediction

24 For Christ has not entered the holy places made with hands, which are copies of the true, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us; 25 not that He should offer Himself often, as the high priest enters the Most Holy Place every year with blood of another— 26 He then would have had to suffer often since the foundation of the world; but now, once at the end of the ages, He has appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. 27 And as it is appointed for men to die once, but after this the judgment, 28 so Christ was offered once to bear the sins of many. To those who eagerly wait for Him He will appear a second time, apart from sin, for salvation.

Hebrews 9:24-28 NKJV

Announcements

Sermon Livestream Plan: Starting today, on the second Sabbath of the month, Pastor Worf is going to be preaching in Clark Fork via a live-stream. This is going to require a more careful timing of our services to start the sermon at about 11:30. Our next plan is live-streaming from Clark Fork back to Bonners Ferry on the fourth Sabbath of the month. Pastor is considering moving to an every-other-week schedule of speaking in each church and live-streaming back to the other church, but that probably won't start until after next summer, at the earliest. This change is because Pastor wants to be in Clark Fork more often and others would like that too. We're going to try this live-stream on the second Sabbath for several months. However, the second Sabbath of December won't work for a livestream to Clark Fork because of a special Christmas program in Bonners, so we'll plan on live-streaming the December 25th sermon instead and pick back up with the second Sabbath schedule in January. We'll revisit the pros and cons of this method in the late spring to determine whether this is something we'll continue or not. Thank you for your willingness to be adaptable, and your resolve to follow the leading of God's Spirit in all things.
