For Today: Grace

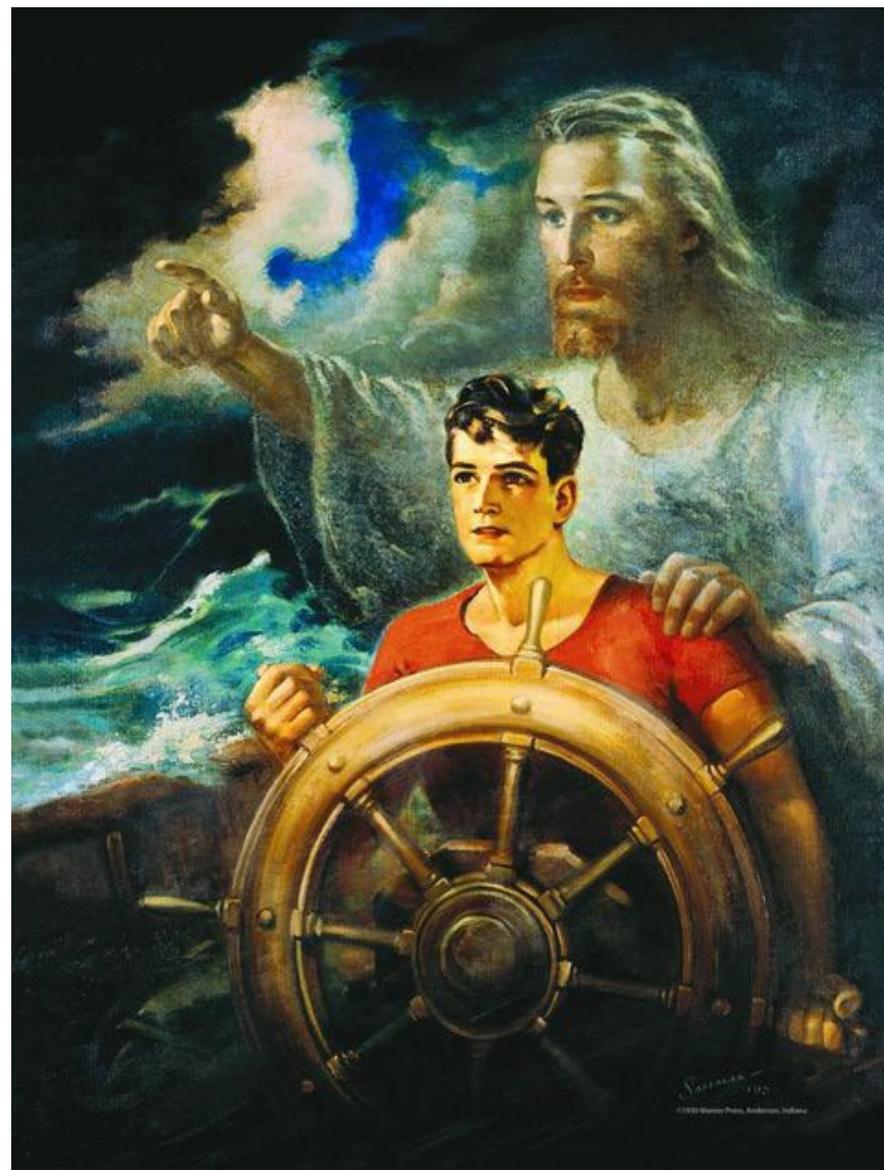

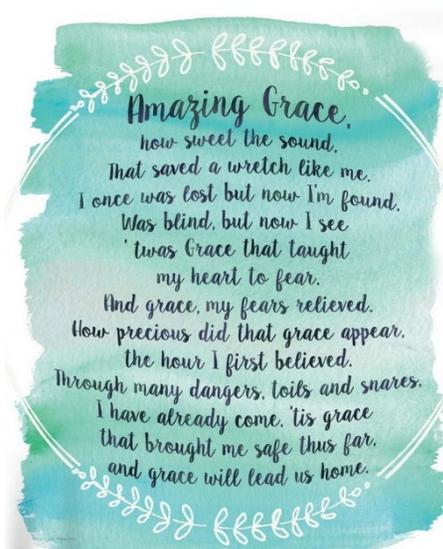

Grace is often defined as God's unmerited favor—but grace covers so much more. Sonnets and songs have been written to rejoice in God wonderful saving grace. Talks and testimonies reminding us that it is all about God's unmerited favor to us.

Grace is a familiar concept to believers but over time has lost some of its dynamic. Grace has its roots in the infinite nature of God and its fruit in His eternal attributes. Grace shows forth His unconditional love. Grace is God's over-abounding provision, not only in the physical but in the spiritual. Grace not only restores what was lost in Eden but adds to it an unknown expanse.

God's common grace is extended to saved and unsaved alike—all humanity (James 1:17; Matthew 5:45). God's gracious provision even provides the breath of those that curse Him.

However, a special grace exists for those that have accessed salvation by grace, through faith. One person puts it this way: Grace is God's provision to bring into being, sustain and perfect His new creation in Christ. It is the operation of His infinite love on behalf of such as are worthy of everlasting punishment. This outpouring of God's infinite love is possible only because Jesus Christ, by His death, fully satisfied the demands of God's justice. As grace came by Jesus Christ – only those who receive Him as Savior are 'under grace'.

Let us reflect on the riches of God's grace towards us. Let us meditate on all that has been poured out on we, who are his children. Surely through time and eternity, we will be praising God for His indefinable grace.

Our Opening Hymn Today: Edward Hopper was born in New York City in 1818. His father was a merchant and his mother a descendant of the Huguenots, the persecuted French Protestants. In 1870, he became pastor of a church in New York harbor known as the "Church of Sea and Land." Here he ministered to the many sailors who made their way to and from their ships. This is where he wrote Jesus Savior, Pilot Me, especially for the spiritual needs of those seafaring men. This song has been included in nearly every evangelical hymnal published.
